

CENTRAL FLORIDA FAMILY LAW INN

MEMBERSHIP SELECTION AND MATRICULATION GUIDELINES

APPLICATION:

Any person desiring to apply to the Inn should complete the application process by May 1st so that the executive council can meet over the summer and select the following years members.

Applicants need to complete the membership application, attach a resume, and provide the name of their sponsor and two additional members who are endorsing them. The executive council will only review applications that are complete, and accompanied by a sponsor. The general requirement is that the sponsor or one of the two endorsers must be a Judge; however, flexibility will be allowed for mediators and other professionals who may have limited interaction with the judiciary. Non-member applicants must re-apply each year, even if they were waitlisted.

Selection of membership will be based upon proper completion of the application process, practice area, nature of firm affiliation, diversity, classification of membership (to ensure an appropriate balance of the levels of membership as described below) availability of new membership spots (the total Inn membership is limited to 125 members), level of interest/commitment to the Inn, ability to actively participate in the Inn, and the applicants legal and social reputation or known conduct.

Upon application to the Inn, or executive council consideration for matriculation (which is not available through application), the executive council will consider the above factors and vote on admission. Admission shall only be offered in the event that there is a vote in favor of admission by at least 85% of the executive council casting a vote, and at least one-half of the executive council must cast a vote. In the event that there are insufficient spots to invite prospective members, the executive council may put them on a waiting list as a demonstration that the application has been favorably received, but that size limitations have created an inability to reach a final determination of membership.

Pupil applicants need only complete the application, send a resume, and be sponsored by a law professor. The pupil classification is limited to 4 members.
